

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Jeff Stanger lives in Indianapolis. His sports and humor column Instant Replay appeared regularly in BC Magazine, and Trolley Dodgers is his debut novel based on one of his columns. His blog, “Jeffreaux’s World,” is a popular internet destination.

Trolley Dodgers

Jeff Stanger

Baseball ignites passion. Enough passion to bring together a sports reporter and a cosmetics salesperson. More than enough to make the Volunteer Librarians of America throw bagels at the Celtic Troubadours. And just enough to let the citizens of Bloomington, Indiana compete with the largest media corporation in the world.

Trolley Dodgers is the story of Bloomington’s quest to bring professional baseball to the Midwest, as its slightly insane residents band together to turn the baseball world upside down and pursue an impossible dream.

“I love this upbeat story. Wonderful prose and lots of heart and soul.”

— Bonnie Hearn Hill, author of Double Exposure and Killer Body

“The first time I read the book was on a flight with my two teenagers. At one point, we were all laughing so hard I thought the flight attendant might ask us to be quiet. The characters are so relatable. . . (the) wit amazing.”

— Linda Toupin, National Sales Director, Mary Kay Inc.

Trolley Dodgers

Title: Trolley Dodgers
Author: Jeff Stanger
ISBN: 1-59411-083-2
Category: Fiction - Young Adult/Humor
Publisher: The Writers' Collective
Cranston, Rhode Island
Pub Date: July 2005
Price: $13.95
Size: 5.5 x 8.5
Binding: Trade Paper
Pages: 192
LCCN: 2004095938
Distribution: Midpoint Trade Books; Ingram

PR and PROMOTION

- Ten City Tour
- National Print Media Campaign
- National Mass Media Campaign

A Novel by

Jeff Stanger

